BY DOUG ROBERTSON

Port 24.12 (156) Glenelg 8.8 (56)

THE mighty Port Adelaide machine cranked into full gear yesterday and mercilessly snuffed out an insipid Glenelg by 100 points in a one-sided performance at Alberton Oval.

At no stage did the lame Tiger look threatening and capitulated pitifully to be held goalless in a forgettable final quarter while Port rattled on 7.2 to win with ridiculous ease — 24.12 (156) to a dismal 8.8 (56).

The Magpies reasserted themselves as a competition heavyweight while the Tigers' early hopes of rebuilding past glory turned decidedly pale. Missing, most notably, was the intensity. Gone was the fight showed last week in toppling Central District and back came the vague unaccountability that has so plagued the Bay boys.

Only towering ruckman Wayne Thornborrow, who played almost a lone hand in saving pride, Brad Ottens, Nick Chigwidden and promising 17-year-old debutant Josh Contin could feel they contributed anywhere near enough for Glenelg.

Otherwise, Port dominated. After Brad Ottens grabbed a strong overhead mark and goaled in the opening minute, Port's intimidating midfield of best afield Tim Ginever, damaging Damien Shaw, Jason Dylan, Simon Tregenza and the super-quick Tony Bamford gave forwards Phil McGuinness (4.2), Darren Smith and later teenager Paul Evans first look at the ball on almost every occasion.

Bamford chipped in with 4.1 himself and showed the sharp reflexes of a budding star. Port had 13 goal scorers for the afternoon, which became little more than a hard training run, and Bay defenders were destined to chase jumpers rather than create opportunities — something that disturbed rookie coach Wayne Stringer.

"We really got a footy lesson," he said. "They taught us how to run, how to crumb, work hard, hit the front of packs and how to protect the ball carriers," he said.

"They did a lot of good one percenters and we were pretty poor in that area. Everyone has got to take a bit of the responsibility for the loss because we were beaten in most areas."

A lack of a forward focus cost Glenelg dearly and Stringer said the mass of youngsters making the fledgling appearances this season must learn from yesterday's thrashing or risk repeat doses. Contrastingly, Port answered the pre-season doomsdayers' predictions of a pending lack of depth with the Power's demands on Magpie players by showcasing an abundance of promising talent. Evans, an All Australian under-17 full forward, looks a league player.

"We did our homework on Glenelg's young guys," said coach Stephen Williams.

"I told our boys it was time we intimidated them."

Even when Glenelg, led mostly by Chigwidden, Burke and Thornborrow, attempted a third-quarter fightback with 4.3, Port humiliated the effort by replying with 6.4 in a complete performance. The Magpie still has the power.

We'll cause more upsets, says Carman

STURT, wooden spooner for the past eight years, lived up to its promise of being a vastly-improved unit this season with a hard-fought 15-point win, 11.16 to 10.7, against North Adelaide at The Parade on Friday night.

Yesterday coach Phil Carman paid tribute to his players for their determined, disciplined approach and claimed a new-look forward line would bring more upset victories this season.

Sturt has struggled to find a consistent goalscorer for several seasons but against North full forward Todd Ferguson, recruited from amateur league club Adelaide University, stood up with five goals while centre half-forward Stephen White and forward pocket Brett Beecroft contributed strongly to the win.

"For the first time since I've been here I feel we've got a useful forward set-up and if those players can continue to combine like they did against North then we'll win quite a few games," said Carman. "They worked well but it really was a top team effort with every player contributing." Sturt trailed by a point at half-time but overran the Roosters 4.8 to 2.4 in a tough second half.

Glenelg players outnumber their Port opponent at Alberton

Dead ringer for his dad!

Chad in action

THE blond locks are familiar as is the No. 12 black and gold guernsey but Chad Cornes is set to make a name of his own in the tough world of SA football.

Chad, 17, has played two reserves games for Glenelg and, according to team manager Andrew Holmes, is set to make an impact at league level.

"Obviously his pedigree is well known," Mr Holmes said referring to Chad's famous father Graham, who retired as a player in 1984 after a distinguished career with Glenelg and SA, and a stint with North Melbourne in the VFL.

"He runs and jumps like his father. I'd say at this stage he's a dead ringer.

"He's a good player. He will play league football this year and in the future."

Chad, who impressed playing at full forward for Sacred Heart College last season, is on Glenelg's 34-man league list for 1997.

So far Chad, who at 190cm and 81kg slightly taller and stockier than his dad, has lined up twice for the Tigers' reserves team.

And despite the side's 14.17 (101) to 2.10 (22) thumping at the hands of Port Adelaide at Alberton yesterday, his 14 kicks, three handballs and four marks as a ruck rover would have put him among Glenelg's best.

Mr Holmes said Chad would "probably be expecting" some extra "attention" from opponents because of his surname.

"He's been pushed around a bit but he seems to handle it pretty well," Mr Holmes said.

As well as playing and training, Chad is completing an SANFL traineeship.
