Bigger test around corner for Mickan's men

ZAC MILBANK

TWO games in and new Glenelg coach Mark Mickan has already learned a lot about his playing group.

But he will not find its true identity until Saturday. The Tigers displayed they do have the heart to be a competitive outfit, responding to a spirited Eagles fightback to cruise to a 35-point victory on Saturday.

While they managed to do it against one of last year's grand finalists, now their challenge is to repeat the dose against another in Central District at Adelaide Oval.

"It's made them realise that they can do it - the challenge is to do it again," Mickan said. "Mature clubs take a win like that in their stride. We need to be able to do that and come out next week and expect to put in the same effort and adhere to the same discipline. That's what makes footy clubs, then you can go places. But we need to do that consistently, quarter-by-quarter and week-to-week. We don't really know what we've learned from it until we play again."

Mickan's stamp on the club is beginning to shine through, evident when the Tigers chose to slow play down at times and select the best avenue to goal. Previously, players may have blazed away with little system while heading towards their attacking 50m arc. "We have worked at that, we do a lot of skill practice because it's so important to find that free player because it gives you easier access to goal," Mickan said.

"But their decision-making is a work in progress, we'll keep working at that."

In contrast, the Eagles were found wanting and once again let their opposition get off to a flying start. Playing catch-up football is not something coach Ron Fuller wants to do against resurgent Norwood on Saturday. "We played catch-up footy and there was nothing left in the end - it was really disappointing to fall away," Fuller said.

Defiant Tigers hit the mark at last for Mickan

GLENELG gave its self-belief a significant boost yesterday, responding to Woodville-West Torrens' bold third-quarter comeback to outrun the Eagles by 35 points at Glenelg.

Unlike round one, when they managed to cough up a 37-point lead against Norwood, the Tigers showed a tenacity which has been sorely missing at Brighton Rd to quash the visitors' threatened revival.

Enjoying a comfortable six-goal break at the main change, Glenelg's hard-won advantage was cut to just five points when Eagle recruit Adam Grocke snapped truly 26 minutes into the premiership quarter.

But the Tigers refused to roll over, outscoring their fancied rivals by seven goals to two for the rest of the game, and rewarding the loyalty of the Glenelg faithful desperate to see a victory on home ground.

"That's what we took from it; when we were challenged we able to steady and show some poise," said Glenelg coach Mark Mickan, who was presiding over his first win.

"It got back to being really strong around the ball. They (Eagles) are a quality team and they came back strongly in the third quarter and took it right to us.

"We had to raise the effort again to get it back to the level that it was in the first half and we did that by starting to run again and win the ball in close."

Previous Glenelg victories would have seen the surnames Culpitt, Neely and Backwell as standout performers. While the latter was a valuable contributor, the Tigers also had winners all over the field.

"That was another important thing; we had really strong contributions from every player, really," Mickan said. "We didn't have a passer, we shared the ball and the workload and that makes it difficult for the opposition.

"It's a credit to the players that, to a man, they were so competitive for the duration."

Backwell had plenty of support through the midfield with Adam Fisher, Tom Logan and Ben Moore all playing their part, while the run from defence, from Paul Sherwood, Luke Panozzo and Justin McConnell, proved invaluable.

Ruckman-forward Daniel Kirk and Jarrad Sundqvist had strong first halves, while Crows draftee Richard Douglas (2.3) was largely responsible for sparking the Tigers before half-time with his creativity and elusiveness around the goalmouth.

Despite showing heart with a fightback, the Eagles left too much to be done in the second half after squandering early opportunities.

Again, Ron Fuller's men started in sluggish fashion and this time they paid the price.

"I thought our first quarter was pretty good, we just didn't capitalise on the scoreboard," Fuller lamented.

"We had a lot of the footy to be in front at quarter time, but then, in the second and fourth quarters, we were second to the ball and very hesitant.

"Full credit to Glenelg who tackled well and got at the footy well."

Playing further up the field as a midfielder, Tim Inkster was the Eagles' only four-quarter contributor, while Dale Symmons, Mark McKenzie and Paul Lindsay (37 hit-outs) had their moments.
